Choosing the Right Trailer for the Right Haul

No two trailers are the same, and every operator has an idea of the “perfect” trailer for every haul. From belt trailers to shuffle floor trailers, belly dumps and more, there is a lot to research and consider when selecting the right trailer for your operation. Learn More>

Illinois and Ohio Remove Barriers to Advanced Recycling and Recovery Facilities

Last month Illinois and Ohio governors signed new legislation enabling greater adoption of advanced recycling and recovery. The American Chemistry Council's Plastics Division welcomed the legislation and issued the following statement ... Learn More>

From Dumpster to Diesel: How a Pilot Project in Whitby, ON is Turning Plastic Waste into Fuel

A technology, dubbed the Phoenix, is giving plastic waste a second life by turning it into diesel fuel and gasoline. John O'Bireck, president of energy investment company Sparta Group, says he sees plastic “as a resource, not a scourge.” Learn More>

Turning Rotten Food and Poop into Energy: Investors Smell an Opportunity

After a lull in investor interest stretching back a decade, attention to “anaerobic digestion” waste-to-energy is surging in the United States, developers in the sector have said. Renewable fuel options are drawing increasing investor ... Learn More>

Despite Uncertainty Over Recycling, Consumers Aren't Backing Down

While headlines over the past few years might lead you to believe otherwise, the reality is that Americans say they are still recycling at the same rate, despite having little confidence that their recyclables actually get recycled. Learn More>

Snohomish County Solid Waste Launches New Webcams to Save Customers' Time before Arriving at Transfer Stations and Drop Boxes

Taking advantage of the good summer weather to haul waste has never taken less time. Snohomish County's Public Works Solid Waste Division is implementing new initiatives to make customer trips to recycling and transfer facilities a little more efficient and timesaving. Learn More>
